

Malcolm Vincent MBA

Malcolm Vincent MBA has been practice manager at Tollgate Medical Centre in East London for 7½ years. Before that he was special internet projects director for Bahrain Telecom and even earlier, he spent many years as a management consultant. His first job was as a RAF navigator flying as low and as fast as often as possible. Away from the office, and on dry days, he can be found with camera wandering the countryside in Hampshire and Wiltshire and when it's wet, he continues to try and grow his family tree. By now, he should have an extensive wine cellar but it proves irresistible!

Tollgate Medical Centre (Beckton not Stamford Hill) is a 15,000 patient PMS practice with eight partners, two salaried GPs, two GP registrars, three practice nurses and two health care assistants. It does not belong to a PbC consortium and, despite being sceptical about its implementation, is an active exploiter of PbC opportunities.
